CFESA

Commercial Food Equipment Service Association

Service Companies (Voting Members)

During the lifetime of any piece of commercial cooking or refrigeration equipment, it will need to be serviced. Whether it's during installation, the warranty period or after the warranty period, CFESA Service Companies are your answer. For over 40 years the Commercial Food Equipment Service Association's members have provided their customers with quality service, proactive maintenance programs and installation of commercial cooking and refrigeration equipment.

These companies service commercial foodservice equipment, maintain service contracts with manufacturers, stock their manufacturers' parts & have the tools and facilities to provide service whether they are in-shop or in the field.

CFESA has established 2 categories of membership for service companies to help them enter into the association and provide the opportunity for growth within the industry. Depending on their current qualifications they are listed under the sections: Service Companies (Voting Members) or Service Companies (Affiliate Members).

A Voting Member has fulfilled the specific requirements as described in the CFESA Bylaws, Article II – Membership (a) Voting Members. Requirements include:

- Minimum three (3) years experience servicing commercial foodservice equipment
- Member firm has current written service agreements with at least five (5) foodservice equipment manufacturers, or
- Represents five (5) manufacturers of foodservice equipment through subagent agreements with the manufacturer's authorized service agency
- Majority ownership of the firm is not held by any equipment manufacturer, equipment dealer/distributor, restaurateur or any combination thereof which could qualify for another membership category
- 75% of the firm's business is derived from parts and service
